Shown here is a monthly KANBAN disbursement of a close tolerance weldment being prepared for shipping. This weldment is made up of both sheetmetal and machined parts. Well designed weld fixtures are used to align the individual pieces and hold the close tolerances required. Subsequent final machining is required for critical features that can't be maintained through the stresses of welding. Whether you're sourcing sheetmetal, machining, or a combination of the two, we are happy to quote your requirements.
